

Central India's biggest agri expo Agrovision from Nov 23

Satish Raut

Nitin Gadkari, Chief Patron of Agrovision and Union Minister for Road Transport addressing the gathering. Also seen are Ashish Jaiswal, Nisha Sawarkar, President of Zilla Parishad, Nagpur, Dwaram Mallikarjun Ramreddy, MLA, Krupal Tumane, MLA, Dr C D Mayee, Chairman Advisory Council, organising secretaries Ravi Boratkar and Ramesh Mankar and others at the press conference.

■ Business Bureau

THE 10th Agrovision will be organised again with more new technical ideas and innovations at Reshminbagh Ground, from November 23 to 26. Devendra Fadnavis, Chief Minister of Maharashtra will inaugurate the Agrovision expo on November 23, at 10 am. This was announced by Nitin Gadkari, Chief Patron of Agrovision and Union Minister for Road Transport, Highways and Shipping and Water Resource, River Development and Ganga Rejuvenation at a press conference on Saturday.

Gadkari said that the 10th Agrovision will be much bigger compared to last year with participation of more than 500 companies. Agrovision will be more comprehensive in which many big companies, research institutes, state departments, various State and agriculture universities will give information on India's crop production.

Also, world's leading agriculture countries, agriculture research centres and companies will participate in the expo.

The new one day conference will give farmers more opportunities in agriculture. Politicians, policy makers, progressive farmers, animal owners and others will participate in the one day conference. Agrovision will be conducting animal expo with different species of animals. Besides this dairy business and various other topics will also be discussed in the workshops, Gadkari said.

There will be Agribraintstorm for the students in agriculture. There will be events like essay competition, poster presentation, innovation and Startups National Agri Expo. The best and useful research will be selected on State level to convert their research to bigger businesses. Agrovision Foundation will extend financial and technical support, he pointed out.

Similarly, there will be Agrovision Awards was started with an objective to select farmers who have contributed to improve farming in Vidarbha. Interested can forward their applications with all details with District Agriculture officers certificate to Agrovision Foundation, 402, Govind Apartments, behind Post Office, Shankar Nagar or email: agrovisiontc@gmail.com.

"Agrithon and farmers success stories will be attractions of Agrovision including many national and international level advance technical information, discussions on different agriculture subjects, conferences to give new direction to farming and animal husbandry", Gadkari further added.